ELECTION IN THE BUSINESS WORLD.

By Rov. Amos Judson Balley The industrial triumvirate is composed of the employers, the employes, and the public, with the government as a fourth party, whose duty it is to see that all rights are respected and all responsibilities are faithfully dis charged. The interests of these three parties are co-ordinate. There is no defense of one party against other parties. A recognition of the equal rights of the three parties does not take from the employers the rights of ownership as only interpreted. But it does emphasize the eleat of stewardship in the interpretation of the rights and responsibilities of ownership.

re are those who do not want to accept the gos mel plan of conduct for the industrial triumvirate became they do not want to "love" the other parties of of industrial strife. There is no elternative; it must be industrial righteousness or industrial strife. The call of the gospel is to those who love righteousness and hate strife. Nobody's life is a failure unless suits him, that is all that is neces sary. A man may be a bore, he may be utterly useless and inefficient, or he may be unendurably officious and always bobbing up at the wrong time, but so long as he doesn't know It he is fortunate above everybody

There is a certain class of pe whom I often think are more to be JULIET V. Their serenity in coldiv seemping down all the unwritten laws of good taste is a serier to beholders, and has a humorous side calculated to make a cow laugh. There is only one sort of person who is funnier, and that is one who is just as hopelessly good form. Some form is so good that it is bad, and people who are addicted with this laborious sort are truly ponderous. Their efforts are as unlike the consummate social grace of those to the manner born as is the playing of the person we used to call a "bumble puppy whist to that of the real whist player. The "bumble pup-py," however, is all right, because he thinks he is.

It is only when we become a little bit doubtful of our own success that we begin to be pitiable, and people kick us from pillar to post. People like impudence; they like duplicity; they like vanity; they like display. If you are meek and modest, mild and meritorious, just get ready to turn the other cheek, for you will have reason

If the thought that perhaps, after all, you are not the smartest thing in town begins to creep into your deluded ranium, expel it, as you would any other poissnous sentiment. Remember you are the center of the universe, and let that thought console you; give your hat a little tilt over your nose and step out jauntily, for if you slink, ody will throw a rock at you or tie a tin can to your coat tall.

DIVORCE AND ALIMONY.

As a rule it is true that when a woman gets a divorce from her husband she wants him still to support her. The judges do wrong in encouraging such actions. In some special not, especially when there are no children.

By Margaret S. Harris.

cases alimony is all right, but in most it is woman should have too much pride and self-respect to want a man whom she will not live with to support her. It is unfair to break up a man's home and then ask him to support a person who declines to live with him,

As a rule, women are selfish. One reason for it is that n woman who does the same work as a man gets only half the pay for it and so the women want the men to even it up. The tendency of late years is for humanity to become more and more selfish. Another thing to be deplored is the great number of suits for breach of promise. It looks as though she had a market price set on ther affections when she asks for money because he love is slighted. Whenever a man is sued for breach of promise he should feel thankful that he did not marry the woman. If he has to pay her money he can feel that "the loser is the winner." Buch things savor too much of blackmail or a hold-up scheme.

There would be so much selfshness among either men o: women if we were not living in a mad acramble for wealth. "Do others or they will do you" is too much the business motto of to-day. We all belong to the human family and we should treat our fellows more as brothers and sisters. If we did so life would be more worth the living than it is at present.

CUBE FOR ANXIETY.

By Rev. Edward Judson That ye may study to be quiet.-I. Thessalonians 4:11.

Anxiety involves extreme pain. I omes from the same root as angulab The pain, however, is not physical, but mental, and for that reason all the harder to hear.

How prevalent in society is this form of mental pain. How infrequent is a tranquil face. Anxiety seems to be a kind of hysteria to which Americans are susceptible. In suicide, at least, we n to be in a fair way of outstripping the rest of the world. Some Hindus that Prof. James was showing about Cambridge remarked upon the strained faces of Americans and their distorted limbs, in contrast to Oriental placidity and grace. He said that it was the custom of Hindus to retire at certain times every day to relax their muscles and meditate on eternal things.

Has Christianity a cure for anxiety The Christian is tranquil as regards provision for the future. He provides for the future, but without anxiety. Over and over Christ bids His disciples: Be not anxious. This does not mean that we are not to work hard and lay up against a rainy day.

The Scriptures teach that righteom ness is the parent of comfort. first the kingdom of God, and His righteousness: and all these things shall be added unto you." The uni-verse is on the side of the man who does right. Exceptions to this are only apparent. The life of the individual s too short for the principle to work itself out completely, so that it stands out more clearly in the history of a family or of a nation.

It is not only provision for the future that is ant to make us anxious. We worry over our past. Now, the Christevelation provides a drug for e painful memories. We learn, like St. Paul, to forget the things which are We cannot change the past, but we believe that all our sins are for given. Our very sins then become step ping-stones. They prevent resumption They fill us with sympathy for the err We love God, because He firs loved us.

Our work, too, often makes us anx-lous. We thirst for recognition or else we grieve over the meager and incon spicuous results of all our efforts. But the value of our work is determined not by the bulk of the result achieved, but by the spirit in which the work is done. It is only as we go deep into the work itself, without thought of the consequences, that we vitally affect the lives of others. Besides the chief value of our work is that it promotes ampl and symmetrical self-development. God thinks more of a man than of his work. The work may be wood, hay or stubble in the end burned up, but the man is saved.

We are employed by our Great Master to work by the day, not by the piece. Every day should have its ritual and it is more important to live by rule than to accomplish some great roult. This is the secret of "Toll unsevered rom Tranquillity."

The supreme crises of life are an even more fruitful source of foreboding than our past or provision for the future. This mind is infested with the thoughts of bereavement and with pov erty, sickness and death and old age Here, again, the Christian's eye is calmed by faith in the love of God Providence is only another name for the love of God which anticipates there crises, so that when we arrive at them we see the traces of the Father's hand that has arranged them for us beforehand, either lightening the burden or strengthening our shoulders to bear it. Some of these things we may never to mass untoward events so as to produce the effect of their occurring simul taneously. Real erils come to us one by one and grace is promised for eac

This is the teaching of Jesus. It is the meaning of His life. To those who walked with Him in Galilee God by their side. Never again could they vorchin a far-off God.

This was also the meaning of Calvary. In the death of Christ men saw God and man meeting in the one great sacrifice of love. In Christ the divine and human meet and evermore are one. This vital sense of the nearness of God is the only thing that can keep religion alive to-day. This is what we mean by faith. This is the fulfillment of the vision John saw-God with usno separation-no more ses.

Again John saw in his vision the es trangement of the people, and he says: "In that day, when the kingdom comes, there will be no more sea." That is, there will be no separation of races and of nations. All these foolish and un-Christian race prejudices and international hatreds and caste distinctions will be swept away.

As a matter of fact, speaking liter ally, how true it is that there is no more sea between Europe and America Our great ships have made the sea as nothing and the nations mingle. Al ready much of the old separation is breaking down and we are realizing that man to man the world over is

But some day there shall be no sep aration whatever, but we shall see that all men suffer the same defeats and osses and are striving after the common happiness and good. Then the brotherhood of man will have come and there will be no more sea.'

Finally, John was thinking of how the sea separated him from those he loved so when he throws the picture over into that other world, which we call heaven, he says, "There will be no more sea there." Here life is full of ses. Love's golden cord are broken Dear ones are taken from us and seem ingly a great ocean of space is between us and them. But there the golder cords shall be again united. Lov never lose its own. And there shall be no more partings. There shall be no separation there. This is the immortal hope of our Christian faith and noth ing can take it from us. No partings yonder, no separations, "no more sea."

THE REAL AND THE IDEAL.

By Rev. J. M. Harris. "Set your affection on things above, not on things on earth."—Col. 3:2.

It is probable that from the age of 16 up to 30 Jesus of Nazareth spent his life in mechanical toll; he made wooden plows, ax handles and yokes; he served as a carpenter. Then for three years he gave himself to the ministry of ideal things, exclusively to the service of the spirit.

There is a wonderful satisfaction in making things, in looking over some concrete plece of work accomplished that belongs to the artisan. Is it not probable that many said that it was a great pity when Jesus gave up so useful a trade as his? To them he seemed to be but chasing the rainbow.

But to-day who possesses a single one of the things that young carpenter made? And did we possess them all, what better off would the world be Yet, on the other hand, how ill could this world afford to lose what he gave it by those three years of the service of the ideal.

In our age of things we so easily forget how large is the place of the ideal and the spiritual. Ever estimatto recognize that our real wealth lies. in thoughts and things abstract. The permanent possessions of humanity are spiritual. Not acres nor armies, not banks nor business make a nation, but mighty, compelling ideals and traditions.

Jeses, Shakespeare, Browning, Lowvive and remain to us all. The truly creat who still stand after the test of the years are those who have lived for the spirit. This is as true of the worker and the warrior as of the philosopher and poet. All were inspired by glowing and thus avoid working in the growing risions; they set their affections on things above the trifles for which we struggle and spend ourselves. They endured as seeing gieries to us invisible; therefore their names endure.

The great undertakings of our own iny are possible only under spiritual inspirations. No rewards of money only can induce a man to steadfastly conduct affairs of great moment and enterprise; he is buoyed up by a great aope; often the very greatness of the task and the sense of serving great ands carry him on; always he sees the work in the ideal rather than the wage.

We need to learn for ourselves what s the work that endures. It is a good thing to lay a course of bricks so that t shall be true, but of greater value of game bird comes from England, the world shall still be enriched by his ideal.

cause they cost more in that season. As has been frequently affirmed in these columns, eggs cost but little or nothing in summer, if the hens are on range, and will then pay even if prices are low. If eggs are 35 cents a dozen, the "real food" material costs the consumer about 25 cents a pound, but when eggs are 15 cents a dozen the consumer gets about 214 pounds of food material for 25 cents. But in both cases the farmer sends away the same proportion of material from his farm; and, whether the hen picks the food up herself or is given her share by her owner, the loss of that much value from the farm occurs. But, again, the hen on the range utilizes materials that the farmer can not sell. A dainty young weed, a plece of bone, insects seeds, grass and refuse thrown away are all made to do service by the hens converting them into eggs. It will pay in winter to save food by keeping the hens warm. If they are not well sheltered more corn will be necessary heat their bodies. Shelter is not really food, but it generally serves to nomize in its use for preventing the waste of corn in the form of heat.

Sheep Industry in Kansas

Indiana, Ohio and Illinois do not have all the troubles in sheep growing. One of the professors of the Kansas Agricultural college calls attention to the fact that Kansas has fallen down greatly in the list of sheep-growing States, in the last fifteen years, and it now ranks only thirteenth among the States in this industry. He says the reason is to be found in the large disproportion of dogs to sheep, the dogs numbering 178,000 to 167,000 of sheep in the State. He maintains that there is more profit in sheep than in any other kind of live atock in Kansas, and one reason is that they are so excellent in keeping up soil fertility, scattering the manure they make perfectly over the fields. He adds:

"Money invested in sheep will nearly double itself in one year, since the fleece will pay for the feed and care of the sheep, and the lambs, often two per ewe, are the profit. It is estimated that you can keep ten sheep where you can keep one cow, and the risk becomes much less. The sheep always carries her pocketbook with her. It she dies, her pelt pays funeral expenses. If she lives, her wool in the spring and her lambs in the fall pay double revenue. No other stock pays as large a percentage of clear profit on the money

Feeding For Bacon.

Brief statements are made by the Orange River, South Africa, Colony Department of Agriculture regarding the pigs kept at the Tweespruit Experi-mental farm and a feeding test undertaken with reference to the production of bacon hogs is reported.

Four lots containing four large Yorkshire hogs each were used, and the rations consisted of separator skim milk and maize meal, buttermilk and maize meal, and skim milk and Kafir core meal in each case 3:1, and wheat middlings (sharps) and maize ment 1:2, mixed to a slop with water. In the forty-nine days of the test the gain ranged from 66.25 pounds per head on the wheat middlings and maize meal, to is pounds on skimmilk and maise meal. The gain was most cheanly made on the last mentioned ration and was most expensive on the Kafir corn ration. The shrinkage in dressing averaged 20 er cent of the live weight, and marketed "the ment gave entire satisfaction as to quality and flavor" and was regarded as superior to imported selecting breeding stock of what ever kind. In cattle breeding is, perhaps, more neglected than in other kinds In word of caution on breeding, Prof. Boss, of the Minnesotn Station, says to young breeders that beginners in live stock breeding seem to expect the pedigree of an animal to make up for lack of feed, poor quarters, and poor management. This, of course, will not do. but a well bred pig, if given good care and comfortable quarters, will unques tionably give better returns for the money invested than any number scrubs can do.

Many breeders overlook the fact that in stock breeding "like produces like." just as surely from poor individuals as from good ones. This is evidenced by the number of scrubby individuals that are often seen in breeding herds, to be sold to some one who sends a mall order It is a matter of doubt whether or not the scrubby pure bred is more likely to bring scrubby offspring, than is even the serub without pedigree. The fact that the good lines have been concentrated for some generations and that an effort has been made to keep the animal pure in breeding emphysizes the likelihood of like begetting like, and serubby oure breeds are the result unless the interiority of the parent in due to poor care gather than poor

"In earlier days it was the custom, much more commonly than now, for sailors to collect strange birds in distant quarters of the globe and bring them to American or European seaports, where they disposed of them for small sums in ready money. Even at the present time the species imported from the Orient are mostly introduced in this way, the traffic being conducted on a considerable scale by the crews of Pacific ateamships with dealers in San Francisco. But, so far as other birds are concerned, the business is more highly systematized. The Secretary's address was the first late Empress Min, and most important of a series to be made at various points in the West prior to his sailing for the Philippines and Japan on the 10th of September. From a political standpoint it was noted that Secretary Taft laid down of Yi Syck his opinions in such a way that there was no mistoking his candidacy and given what little bardly any doubt, also, that he expects military training to have as his chief opponent on the Democratic ticket William Jennings Bryan. Mr. Taft singled Mr. Bryan out repeatedly in discussing public questions and the views of other individuals.

He denies that Roosevelt's policies are socialistic and that the President was responsible for State legislation reducing rallroad passenger rates or for Wall street

He designated Mr. Bryan's scheme government as "nerveless" and denies the practicability of a national referendum. He comes out squarely against government ownership of railroads.

He announces that he is against free trade, but favors tariff revision and believes there should be no tariff tinkering until after the next presidential election

Although taking an advanced position in this matter as revealed in the stringent legislation contained in the pure food law, the government of the United States has been obliged at times to take sharp issue with some of the European government officials as to the barmfulness of certain ingredients of our food export-ed. Against purely technical objections the Agricultural Department has been contending with difficulty for a leng time. But with the passage of the pure food act, with the authority contained therein to apply its provisions to imported food and drugs and wines, the department finds its hand much strengthened in dealing with European governments, which are now beginning to show a very practical interest in the inquiry which Dr. Wiley is making into the nature of the ingredi-ents of the great quantities of foreign delicatessen and liquors that are flowing

Labor and the Tariff.

In the "Labor World," August 17 of Newark and Jersey City, appears a dignified, fair and truthful editorial entitled "The Reason Why," which answers the question: "Why should the man who works for wages be in favor of a Protective Tariff?"

It is an important question and one well worthy of the attention given to it by the "Labor World." Printed in a newspaper which so ably represents the views and interests of many thousands of New Jersey wage earners, the article should and doubtless will have a wide reading. It is a healthy, wholesome sign when labor journals of this class take up the question of the true has the right to acquire the headhund relation of a Protective Tariff to work and wages. The "Labor World" exposition is clear and convincing. No event. Songs are sung in his honor fair-minded and intelligent man can seccessfully confute its conclusion:

Low Tariff always means low prices for labor's products and low wages the brave. for labor. A Protective Tariff always means good prices for what labor produces and high wages for labor. This is why the man who works for wages should always be in favor of a mist.

EAT DOGS.

And Cut Off the Heads of their Foes The igorrotes, a Half-naked People from the Philippin

Among the many attractions which are to be presented at the State Fair this fall will be a typical Igorrote Village. The Igorrotes come from the almost inaccessible mountain regions of the island of Luson, Philippine Islands, over 12,000 miles away, and are counted among the most interesting primitive people in the world.

Their customs are unique and start-

The eating of the dog is one of their principal tribal customs and is closely associated with their religious auperstitions. The flesh of the dog is a delicacy with them the same as chicken is with us, but it is also supposed to have a quality which nerves the warrior for his warlike expeditions. The killing of the dog is always accompanied by the beating of gongs and mysterious songs and dances.

The fighting instinct which is so in herent in man assumes a ghastly form among the Igorrotes. So many ailments are purely nervous affections, that you can hardly miss it if you try Dr. Miles' Nervine. It restores nervous energy—and through its invigorating influence upon the nervous system, the organs are strengthened. The heart action is better; digestion improved, the sluggish condition overcome, and healthy activity re-established. Livity Te-established.

"Dr. Miles' Nervine is worth its weight in gold to me. I did not know what alled me. I had a good physician but got no relief. I could not est, sleep, work, sit or stand. I was searly cray, One day I picked up a paper and the first thing that met my eyes was an advertisement of Dr. Miles' Nervine, I concluded to try it and let the doctor go, and I did so. After taking two bottles I could dress myself. Then I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and now I can work and go out, and have told many the benefit I have received from these remedies and several of them have been cured by it since. I am fifty-nine years old and pretty good yet."

After a hard-fought trial, abounding in sensational features, John A. Benson, a wealthy real estate dealer in San Francisco.

weathy red canto dealer in sait Pro-cisco, was convicted in connection with the autional land frauds. Benson was the operator for the firm of Henson & Hyde. Benson was arrested last December in Washington charged with defraud ing the government of at least 100,000 acres of forest land by various schemes. It was alleged that he fraudulently manipulated land under the forest reserve act to a hugh profit. The operations were said to have been carried on in Washing-ton, Oregon, California, Montana, Idaho, Nevada, Colorado, North Dakota, South Nevada, Colorado, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansaa, Minnesoin, Arisona and New Mexico. To secure Benson he was decoyed to Washington and apprehended by officers of the Department of Justice. Lator he was sent to San Francisco. When the trial was to be called it is said that heavy influence was brought to bear to lessen the effects of the law on Benson. But Secretary Hitchcock and the Department of Justice were determined to break up the workings of the land frauds and they prosecuted the matter vigorously. The final punishment of Benson will be decided upon soon.

PEARLS IN WESTERN RIVERS.

Government Asked to Project Mussels from Unchecked Raids. Pearl dealers of the Maiden Lane dis

A petition was recently sent to Washington asking for an investigation of the present con-ditions affecting the mussels of the West-ern rivers and the feasibility of estab-lishing batcheries in which the mussel may be propagated. The men in the movement have received assurances that movement have received assurances that an investigation is already under way. Dealers agree that, although 1,500 or 2,000 men are daily looking for pearls in the upper Mississippi and the Wabash rivers, now the most promising fishing grounds, yet fewer round pearls are being received in New York than in any preceding years. preceding year.

Rapid Progress Makes 88,000,000 More Needed for Piscal Year. Construction work on the Panama canal is developing so much faster than was contemplated when the estimates for ex-penditures during the fiscal year 1908 were made, nearly a year ago, that it is now estimated that about $8,000,000 in excess of the appropriations could be used to advantage in pushing forward the work during the present year. Col. Goethals, the engineer in charge, thinks it would be in the interest of true economy to proceed along this basis and ask Congress at its next session to make good the deficiency, as the argument is made that with the present organization and progress the waterway can be completed more rapidly than by restraining expendiwithin the appropriations now avail

The Sultan's troops are reported to have defeated again a large force of the Kunss triffesmen, in whose territory Caid Sir Harry MacLean has been held captive. Six hundred Moors were killed and several of their villages were burned. In Paris the Moroccan situation is regarded as having assumed a distinctly more serious aspect. The ferment in the interior of Morocco, the proclamation of Mulai Hadz, the Sultan's brother, as sultan by a section of the rebels, and the appearance of a new Moorish army before Casablanea have created fear that the whole country soon will be ablaze with Audic sentiment is becoming stronger against the halfway measures, which, it is feared will lend to disaster. The Paris papers assert that the world must support France if it is deeded to send a military expedition to Fez, as in no other way, the newspapers say, can the state of anarchy in Morocco be ended. The government, however, is realsting this pressure, desiring to keep within the bounds of the Algedras convention, and reports that negotiations are under way for an enlargement of the mandate of the powers are emphatically denied. Nevertheless it is admitted, even in official cir-cles, that something might happen which would place an entirely new complexion on the situation and compel France, in the name of the powers, to clustise Morocco.

Over a million copies of the book have been printed, and still the public demand for it is not satisfied. Another edition of 250,000 copies of this famous volume, the full title of which is "Special Diseases of the Horse," has just been ordered. This makes over a million copies ordered, but before the demand is supplied these will be exhausted and Congressmen will find it necessary to go down in their pockets to have copies of the book printed for constituents after using their congres-sional quota. An idea of the magnitude of the work may be formed from the state ment that the first edition of 301,000 copies if laid end to end would cover a space fifty miles long, and if piled up flatwise would make 10S piles as high as

In 1004 the census bureau started out o ascertain whether the country is get ting better and it now announces that better or worse, the ratio of persons in prisons to the entire population has de-creased since 1890. Out of every million Americans there now are 1,000 in prison not including trust magnates, while in 1800 there were 1,067. The census ex-perts point out that this decrease may nean only an extension of the probation and parole system. In 1880 8 per cent of the prisoners were women; in 1890 5 per cent of the prisoners were women; in 1890 7 per cent, and in 1904 5 per cent. Colored persons were more common among the prisoners in 1904 than they were in 1890.

SEA COAST DEFENSES.

Atlantic Senboard Can Look After

Itself Without Battleships.

The determination to send the batleships of the North Atlantic fleet to the Pacific coast, whence, even in the gravest emergency, they could not re-turn in less than two months, has led to some anxious inquiry regarding the security of aths great cities along the Atlantic in the possible event of attack from an enemy's fleet. The grave anxiety which attended the departure of the At lantic fleet for the Caribbean, in the Spanish war, when it was feared that a part of the Spanish navy was on the high seas bound for the North Atlantic, has not been forgotten, and there is some disposition to question the wisdom of a move which might leave Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Charles ton and other great centers "without pro-

The conditions are, however, radically different from those which obtained in 1808, and, according to the military experts, the cities and harbors of the Atlantic coast would be amply protected from capture or bombardment by the coast defenses, which have been so ex-tensively improved in the last ten years. Of course, the presence of a fleet along the Atlantic coast in time of war would be essential to prevent the landing of an invading army at points not covered by the coast defenses, but the harbers and great cities would be entirely safe. Only one weak spot remains, and plans for its protection have been perfected, alhough the money necessary has not been appropriated. The weak spot is the en-trance to Chesapeake Bar, which is out of range of the great disappearing guns of Fortress Monroe. In the opinion of the National Coast Defense Board, "with the entrance as it now is, unfortified, a hostile fleet, should it gain control of the sen can establish without coming under the fire of a single gun, a base on its shores, pass in and out at pleasure, have access to large stores of valuable supplies of all kinds, and paralyse the great trunk lines of railways crossing the head of the bay." The entrance to Chesapeake Bay is 12 miles from Fortress Monroe, while effective range of the blg guns there installed is only 12,000 yards. To rem-edy this defect, it is proposed to con-struct an artificial island, practically coast. Something over $50,000,000 remains to be spent to complete the defenses in accordance with the present plans.

This year Congress has appropriated $1.

This year Congress has appropriated $1. Of this sum, $150,000 has been set aside for the construction of a 14-inch gun for the artificial island above referred to, $475,000 is being expended for submarine mines, $125,000 for searchlights and $700,000 for the establishment of fire

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT GIVES WARNING TO RICH ORIGINALS.

Once for all, let me say that, as far as I on concerned, and for the eighteen months of my administration that remain, there will be no change in the policy we have steadily pursued.

There will be no let-up in the effort to. secure the honest observance of the law, for I regard this contest as one to determine who shall rule this government-the people through their governmental agents or a few ruthless and determined men whose wealth makes them particularly formidable, because they are behind the breastworks of corporate organization. . . .

No individual, no corporation obeying the law, has anything to fear from this administration. • • It is idle to ask me not to prosecute criminals, rich or poor.

. . . The determination of the government to punish certain malefactors of great wealth has been responsible for something of the financial troubles, at least to the extent of having caused these men to combine to bring about as much financial stress as they possibly can, in order to discredit the policy of the government and thereby to secure a reversal of that policy so that they may enjoy the fruits of their own evil doings.

Our aim is to help every honest man, every honest cor poration; and our policy means in its ultimate analysis a healthy and prosperous expansion of business activities, of honest business men and honest corporations.

It will be highly disastrous if we permit ourselves to be misled by the pleas of those who see in an unrestricted individualism the all-sufficient paracea for social erils; but it will be even more disastrous to adopt the opposite panacea of any socialistic system which would destroy all individualism, which would root out the fiber of our whole citizenship.

Where the power of the law can be wisely used to prevent or to minimize the acquisition or business employment of such wealth and to make it pay by income or inheritance tax its proper share of the burden of gov-ernment, I would invoke that power without a moment's

It seems to me that such questions an antional sovereignty and State's rights need to be treated not empirically or academically, but from the standpoint of the interests of the people as a whole. National sovereignty is to be upheld in so far as it means the sovereignty of the people used for the real and ultimate good of the people; and State's rights are to be upheld in so far as they mean the people's rights. Nation Should Control.

"I believe in a national corporation law for corporations engaged in interstate business. I believe, furthermore, that the need for action is most pressing as retards those corporations which, because they are common carriers, exercise a quasi-public function, and which can be completely controlled in all respects by the federal government, by the exercise of the power conferred under the interstate commerce clause, and, if necessary, under the post road clause, of the constitution, During the last few years we have taken marked strides in advance along the road of proper regulation of these railroad corporations, but we must not stop in the work. The national government should exercise over them a similar supervision and control to that which it exercises over national banks. We can do tals only by proceeding farther along the lines marked out by the recent mational legislation.

"In dealing with any totally new set of call to extend the control of the control Nation Should Control.

corporate evils with a comparison of men in early colonial days with men of the present. This brought him face to face with his principal theme, on which he said the following:

"The utterly changed conditions of our national life necessitate changes in certain of our laws, of our governmental methods. Our federal system of government is based upon the theory of leaving to each community, to each State, the control over these things which affect only its own members and which the people of the locality theme selves can best grapple with, while providing for national regulation is at those matters which necessarily affect the nation as a whole. "Such a view is wicked, whether applied to capitalist or inbor leader, to rich man or poor man; and all that I have said as to desirable and undesirable citizens remains true. But we have to take this feeling into account when we are debating whether it is possible to get a conviction in a criminal proceeding against some rich trust magnate, many of whose actions are severely to be condemned from the moral and social standpolan, but no one of whose actions seems clearly to establish such technical guilt as will insure a conviction. As a matter of expediency, in enforcing the law against a great corporation, we have continually to weigh the arguments of the law against a great corporation, and and so to whether a prosecution can seem fully be entered into, and as to whether we can be accessful a seriminal action against the chief individuals in the corporation, and if not whether we can a test of the government is always objected to, as amitter of course, by the wrongdoers, by the hencellelaries of the wrongdoers, and by their champions; and often one of the most effective ways of attacking the action of the government is a laways objected to, as amitter of course, by the wrongdoers, and by their champions; and often one of the core of those who are really striving to preceive action of such screenity that it cannot the enforcement of these laws as to clamor for action of such screenity that it cannot the individual members of this is the demand often made for criminal prosecution in the proceed against them criminally be cause of those were things which the corporation which they direct and control has done. "It is monstrous," the President said, "that a man or woman who is crippled in an industry, even as a result of taking what are the necessary risks of the occupation, should be required to hear the whole burden of the loss. That warden should be distributed, and not placed solely upon the weakest individual, the one least able to carry it. Of Socialism he said in part: "Certain Socialistic leaders propose to redistribute the world's goods by refusing to thrift and energy and industry their proper superiority over folly and idleness and sullen envy. Buth legislation would, in the words of the president of Columbia University, "wreck the world's efficiency for the purpose of redistributing the wirld's discontent."

The first part of the President's speech was devoted to a remarkably conjunt enlogy of the character of the Pilgrim fathers.

"Men." he said, "must be judged with

"Men," he said, "must be judged with reference to the age in which they dwell and the work they have to do. The Puritian's task was to conquer a continent; not merely so overrun it, but to settle it, to till it, to build upon it a high industrial and social life, and while engaged in the rough work of taming the shangar wilderness at that very time also to lay deep the immovable foundations of our whole American system of civil, political and religious liberty achieved, through the arrierly process of civil where the process of system of civil, political and religious lib-orty achieved through the orderly process of law. This was the work allotted to him to do; this is the work he did, and only a mas-ter spirit among men could have done it." For Inheritance Tax.

The President touched here on the inheritance tax, saying:

"Where the power of the law can be wisely used to prevent or to minimize the acquisition or business employment of such wealth and to make it pay by income or inheritance tax its proper share of the burden of government I would invoke that power without a moment's hesitation."

The Science of Love.

Speaking before the International chool Congress at London, Dr. Sir James Creighton-Brown stated that the tender passion of first love could be traced to two scientific causes, the first being a species of cerebral commotion and the second the stirring of some hitherto dormant association centers by an appropri-ate affinitive impression. Dr. Creighton-Brown also spoke of dictary for school children, and ridiculed the common idea that fish was especially adapted for feed-ing the brain, saying that phosphorus is no more the accret of genius than toma-toes are the cause of cancer. What the working brain did need, he said, was food in which the chemical constituents were properly proportioned, and which was di-gestible and palatable. In his opinion animal food was necessary in order to supply an abundance of proteid. Brain workers of all ages he advised to take frequent small meals rather than infrequent heavy meals.

Believes in Woman's Power. Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, the well-known society leader, in a recent interview took direct issue with the expressions of Charles M. Schwab, who not long ago gave it as his opinion that the true field for women's exertions was in the domestic rather than the business world. Mra. Fish thinks that women should be to enter any occupation, and believes that they are equal in mentality to men, the difference being merely one of quality. She said she would rather be a great actress, writer or artist than to have all the wealth she could command. She de-cried the practice of women marzying in-ferior men for fear of being called old maids, and urged that women should have faith in their own powers and develop the

> FELT HE HAD KICK COMING. Bhopper's Complaint About as Reason able as Many Others.

While we were going down in the Subway the other morning we met a friend, says a writer in the New York Times. He was standing before at advertisement with a rapt expression on his face-no, gentle reader, that is not Teddied spelling for rapper—and the only greeting he vouchsafed us was "Read the last line of this advartisement." It was an advertisement for a certain make of fubber heels and the line which had, figuratively speaking, caught our friend's eye read as follows:

"For sale at all good stores; 50 cents attached."

"Well, what about it?" we asked. "Nothing, except that it's an abso lute, downright, disreputable fake," was the response. "I found that out the other day when I bought a pair upplness to the donor.—New York of them on the strength of this advertisement."

in these days of many society pa-pers it is interesting to recall the generis of the first one of the race beginning of the eighteenth century.

It was called Nouvelles a la Main. Hand-to-Hand News in those days and the inventor was a lady named Mme. Doublet.

Mme. Doublet received all the best society of Paris and both she and her guests loved scandal. To cater for their taste a book was kept into which every visitor wrote what he or she every visitor wrote wast no or and had picked up in the way of news and gossip since his or her last visit, and these news items were afterward copied onto sheets of white paper and taken round to the houses of those of Mms. Doublet's friends who had not called that day,

Eventually the thing developed into commercial enterprise, and he Hand-to-Hand News was sold to all who wanted it for six francs monthly or $5 a year. But a dollar in those days was, it must be remembered, worth a good deal more than it is in 1758, when Mme. Doublet was quite an old lady, an attempt was made to stop the circulation of her Nouvelles a la Main. But it had gained so great a hold upon the public taste that the police were powerless to do so.—London Express.

Made the Marriage Sure. An amusing story is told of a mar-riage celebrated in the Glasgow (Scotland) southern police court some time ago. A man and woman were being tried on a charge of riotous conduct in Main street, Glasgow. In the indictment they were described as man and wife, but from the evidence offered to the court it was more than doubtful whether they were actually married. The presiding ballle, evidently suspicious that there was no such relationship between the pair, saked the woman, "Is this man (pointing to the male prisoner) your husband?" "Tes," was the answer. "And," turning to the man, "is this woman your wife?" "Yes."
